

The Adventure

“Hello, I’m Sophie and I love adventures and games with a lot of imagination “my mummy and daddy say I have a very good imagination,” exclaimed Sophie. “Lucy!” Sophie hollered. “Yes,” answered Lucy. “Say hi and tell us about yourself a bit.” “Ok, sure. Hi, I’m Lucy and I’m Sophie’s sister we both have a great imagination, but I bet Sophie has already told you. Me and Sophie are quite similar. There is only one thing I like, and Sophie doesn’t and that is I like jewellery and Sophie doesn’t instead she likes makeup but enough about that,” told Lucy.

On Saturday, Lucy and Sophie’s watches both went PING. Lucy and Sophie both knew why though because it was an incredibly special ping a ping that only pinged when there was a mission. Lucy and Sophie both looked at each other when they had finished reading about what the mission was and then said at the same time, “No problem.” The very next day, Lucy and Sophie went to school more cheerful then normal which is good because you can only get anything done if you do it in a good mood. Having been in a good mood at school meant the day went faster so in no time at all they were at their very last lesson of the day. Although, they were in a good mood they weren’t any more because this was the worst ever lesson for them. They hated it! So, because they hated the lesson the lesson was so long.

“I want this lesson to end so we can get home and start our mission, ” hissed Lucy. “shshsh not too loud but I agree I want to go home too and start our mission, ” agreed Sophie. Sophie and Lucy both agreed that they wanted to go home and start their mission. Eventually, they had finished their work for the day and started to head outside to where their mum was waiting for them but just then the teacher called them over to her. Lucy and Sophie went off to the teacher nervously. The teacher asked them, “Please can you tell you’re mum to come and talk to me oh and don’t worry it isn’t anything bad. ” Sophie and Lucy both looked at each other slightly happy and slightly worried. “Ok sure if you really need to, ” whispered Sophie and Lucy at the same time. Just at that moment, Sophie’s and Lucy’s mum opened the classroom door to try and find Sophie and Lucy.

“Ah there you two are, I’ve been waiting outside the door for ages and yet you still didn’t come so here I am coming to get you, now come on, ” told Sophie’s and Lucy’s mum to Sophie and Lucy. Sophie and Lucy didn’t move. “Come on, ” repeated their mum impatiently. “Actually, they aren’t leaving because I want to have a talk with you about Sophie and Lucy, ” exclaimed their teacher Miss Robinson. “Ok if you must, ” their mum said nervously and then sat down very nervously. It took an hour and a half for their mum to come but when you finally did, she came out beaming. Even though she came out after so long nobody spoke until they were in the car. As you would have guessed there was a lot of questions’ asking about what the teacher said to her and she told them, “she told me that you were doing extremely well. ” Suddenly, Sophie’s and Lucy’s face lit up again, with this good news sprung at them. Again, nobody spoke until they were inside the house and when they were inside the house, Sophie and Lucy dashed up to their room to talk about what this mission is going to be about with the mad scientist. “What do you think it’s going to be about?” asked Lucy. “I don’t, know what do you think? ” repeated Sophie. “I don’t know that’s why I asked you, ” exclaimed Lucy. PING! Went Sophie’s phone again. “it’s time, ” squealed Sophie.

“Yay! ” Lucy squealed back. So, of they went on their mission back to school and apparently trying to stop the mad scientist from blowing up the whole school. (I know crazy right.) Off they went and sprinted to the school as fast as they can. Eventually, they got there but when they did, they saw that the mad scientist had got it wrong a couple of times but suddenly, they saw she had the right ingredients and then pounced. Sophie kicked a bottle of one of the particularly important ingredients to blow up the whole school and then they kept on kicking until all the bottles had cracked and knew their job was done and dashed back home. Just as they got home their bedroom door creaked open and they had a quick glimpse of their mum checking in on them. When she left the room, they both did a silent giggle so only they could hear each other little did they know who their mother really is. Just because they don’t know though doesn’t mean you can’t know so their mother is really the mad scientist but just because you know doesn’t mean you can tell Lucy and Sophie because they are suppose to fight and stop their mother but they can’t know it’s their mother. What they also didn’t know was that their mother also gave a little knowing giggle. The next morning, they had another message from their secret boss. The message read well done. Lucy and Sophie both smiled at each other.
