

Can following God bring freedom and justice?

In this unit I will:

- explain connections between the story of Moses and the concepts of freedom and salvation.
- recognise freedom and salvation in the 'big story' in the Bible, both in the New Testament and Old Testament,
- make clear connections between Bible texts (account of Moses and the commandments) and what Christians believe about how they should behave.
- learn ways in which some Christians put their beliefs into practice by trying to bring freedom to others (like through the Five Marks of Mission (CofE), through campaigning, charity support and lifestyle).
- assess how Christians put their beliefs about living as the People of God into practice in different ways.
- comment on how Bible texts about freedom and justice are personally helpful or inspiring.
- weigh up how Christian ideas about justice relate to the issues, challenges and opportunities of my own life and the world today, developing insights of my own.

At each stage, consider the messages that are being communicated about freedom, hope and salvation.

When Moses was born the Hebrews were slaves in Egypt. Pharaoh was afraid of them because he thought they might take over his country. He ordered his soldiers to kill all the baby boys at birth so they would not grow up and fight him.

To save Moses his mother made a plan. She put him in a basket and set him adrift on the River Nile and left his fate to God's will.

Moses floated down the river where the Pharaoh's daughter found and rescued him. She brought him back to the palace and raised him as a son.

Moses grew up in the palace as a royal prince. One day he lost his temper and killed an Egyptian who had beaten a Hebrew slave to death. He had to flee to another land.

He lived in the land of Midian and worked as a shepherd for forty years. One day, when he was in the desert, Moses heard the voice of God from a burning bush. God asked Moses to lead his people out of slavery in Egypt to the Promised Land.

Moses went back to Egypt and asked the Pharaoh to free his people. Pharaoh did not want to lose his slaves so he refused. God unleashed ten plagues on the Egyptians.

It was the tenth plague that finally made the Pharaoh let them go. The eldest son in every family, including the Pharaoh's, died. The Hebrews marked their doorposts with lamb's blood so that they would be safe. The Hebrews fled but soon after the Pharaoh changed his mind and sent his army after them.

The army chased the Hebrews to the banks of the Red Sea where they were trapped. God told Moses to lift up his rod and as he did so the waters parted to make a dry path.

When all the Hebrews were safely at the other shore, Moses raised up his rod again and the water closed on the Pharaoh's army who had been chasing them. God had saved the Hebrews.

Even though the Hebrews were free they were still in the Desert. They wanted to find a land called Canaan which God had promised them. The journey was very long and they soon ran out of food. They were hungry and blamed Moses for taking them out of Egypt. Moses told them that God would provide food.

The next day the ground was covered with a white food that tasted like honey. God also sent a flock of birds called quails that they cooked and ate. When their water ran out, God told Moses to strike a rock with his rod. As he did so water rushed out and they all had enough to drink.

After three months of travelling the Hebrews arrived at the foot of Mount Sinai. God called Moses to meet him at the top of the mountain. As he climbed up there was a thunder storm.

At the top of the mountain God gave Moses ten laws which told the people how to live. These Ten Commandments were written on two tablets of stone.

Moses was gone for a very long time, and the people waiting at the foot of the mountain grew angry. They decided to make themselves another god to worship. It was a golden calf. When Moses returned to find the people worshipping the calf he was very shocked. He broke the tablets God had given him and destroyed the calf. God forgave the people for worshipping the statue and told Moses to cut two more tablets of stone.

Moses took the stone tablets up the mountain and God gave him the Ten Commandments again. When he came down all the people listened to Moses as he told them what God had said. Moses promised God that the Hebrews would keep all of the Commandments.

Glossary

assess

Judge, rate or consider the value of something

weigh up

Carefully assess something

freedom

Able to act as you wish

justice

Fair and right

covenant

Promise or agreement between two people

slavery

People owning other people
and using them for work

The Ten Commandments

You shall have no
gods before me

You shall not make any idols to worship

You shall not take the Lord's name in vain

Remember and keep the Sabbath holy

Honour your father
and mother

You shall not kill

You shall not commit adultery

You shall not steal

You shall not bear false witness

You shall not covet
your neighbour's wife
nor goods

The Old Testament tells the story of the Children of Israel (People of God).

The story of Moses tells how he rescued his people, the Israelites (Jews), from slavery in Egypt.

Moses is a great prophet and leader of his people.

Moses led his people out of Egypt to freedom by crossing the Red Sea, which God parted, to help them escape.

At Mount Sinai, God spoke to Moses and made a deal (covenant).

God gave the Jews a set of rules to live by - The Ten Commandments.

A new command I give you:

Love one another.

As I have loved you, so you must love one another.

JOHN 13:34

